AROUND THE TOWN

Walter Smith of the blind line is a visitor in Calgary.

W. Davies of Edmonton was a visitor in town last week and took in the Masonic ceremonies while here.

Miss Anna Hiebert of the Calgary General Hospital was visiting with her parents over Sunday.

Dr. Nicol, assistant to Dr. McQueen, at Edmonton, came down on a short visit to Rev. D. H. Marshall on Monday night.

Members of the local lodge of Oddfellows are requested to come to the regular meeting on Thursday night as there is business of great importance to be discussed.

Miss Pearl McNaughton was taken to Calgary on Saturday afternoon to undergo an operation. It is to be hoped she will return fully recovered.

There will be a meeting of the Dairymen's Association held at the Fire Hall, Didsbury, on Monday afternoon March 10th, at 2 o'clock.

Rev. D. H. and Mrs. Marshall are on a visit to Calgary. Mr. Marshall will attend the Presbyterian meetings of the Presbyterian church which are being held in Calgary.

Master Cecil Stader was the host at a birthday party a few days ago. Games and refreshments were the order of the evening and the young people had a very good time.

Rev. F. D. Roxboro of Olds will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church on Sunday night and Rev. D. H. Marshall will conduct the services for Mr. Roxboro at Olds.

The Women's Institute will meet at the home of Mrs. Chambers on Thursday, March 13, at 3 o'clock. Canned fruit for discussion. All the women of the community are cordially invited.

Mr. J. A. Lamote, representing La Presse, a newspaper published in Montreal, was a caller at our office this week. Mr. Lamote is greatly impressed with the outlook in Alberta, and being a former member of the R. N. W. M. P., sees a great change in the west since he was here in the 90's.

Elder N. Aalborg, formerly in charge of the Seventh Day Adventist church here, is staying in town for a short time and intends to speak on the present Turkish war and its influence on the nations, in the local church on Sunday evening at 7.30 p. m. A treat is in store for those attending as Elder Aalborg has made a special study of this subject.

Charley Brown of Westcott celebrated the completion of his fine new horse barn by giving a good old-fashioned barn dance in it last Friday night. It is reported that Charley and Walter Smith tried their best to out out the young fellows at the dance and succeeded fairly well. The very large crowd present enjoyed themselves immensely and after the dancing was over tables were put up and everybody present sat down to a fine spread provided by their hosts.

THE WORLD'S WORK DEPENDS ON THE WORLD'S DIGESTION

From the captain of industry to the hod carrier—from milady in the auto to the woman with the scrubbing brush—the accomplishments of every one of us depend absolutely on the accomplishments of our stomachs. Backed by a good digestion, a man can give the best that is in him. When his stomach fails, he becomes a weakling.

To this loss of power no one need submit. Right habits of eating, drinking, sleeping and exercise, aided by Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, will restore and maintain the full efficiency of the human mind and body.

Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets contain the active principles needed for the digestion of every kind of food. They go to the assistance of the weakened stomach, and enable the sufferer, right from the start, to assimilate and get the benefit of the food eaten. With this assistance, the digestive organs regain their tone, and soon the use of the tablets is no longer necessary.

If your stomach is not working properly, try Na-Dru-Co Dyspepsia Tablets, 50c, at your druggist's. National Drug and Chemical Co. of Canada, Limited, Montreal.

A Bit of 'Hole' Right

A well-known Lancashire farmer possessed of a considerable sense of humor, had for a long time been petitioning the local urban council to fill up a deep mud-hole on the common before his house, but without result. One very wet night, however, as he was seated comfortably before his fire, a tremendous cry for help was heard from the outside. The farmer, seizing a lantern, opened the door and peered out into the darkness, to find three of the council men, on their return home from a meeting, had missed their way across the common, and were now struggling in the mud-hole.

Well, gentlemen, said the old Lancashire son of the soil, as he surveyed them grimly. I am glad to see you stirring in this matter at last.

Sympathetic

Don't you ever find it hard to be a freak asked the stoutish, tightly-laced woman who had stopped to converse with the fat lady.

No, not a bit, was the reply. I often feel sorry for some of you people who seem to find it so hard not to be freaks.

A Real Asthma Relief.—Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has never been advertised by extravagant statements. Its claims are conservative indeed, when judged by the cures which it performs. Expect real relief and permanent benefit when you buy this remedy and you will not have cause for disappointment. It gives permanent relief in many cases where other so-called remedies have utterly failed.

No Stone Unturned

A countryman who visited London lost his gold watch. He trotted off to Scotland Yard and told them about his trouble. With their usual politeness they informed him that they would leave no stone unturned in their endeavor to find his watch.

A few days later he went through some of the leading thoroughfares and saw street after street turned up and was told that a few miles were in the same condition.

He ran off to Scotland Yard and said: I didn't think I was giving you all that trouble. If you don't find the watch by Saturday you need not pull up any more of the road.

Minard's Liniment Cures Burns, Etc.

Crabbed

The literary young man had just taken possession of a smart young lady at the party and was at a loss for a topic of conversation. After much mental struggle he at length inquired:

On, Miss J.—I suppose you are familiar with Crabbe's tales?

Young lady (scornfully)—I was not aware that crabs had tails, sir!

Young man (confusedly)—I beg pardon. I should have said "read Crabbe's tales."

Young lady (still more scornfully)—And I was not aware that red crabs had tails, either.

Farmer John—This is the New York Stock Exchange my dear. All those men running about on the floor are brokers.

Mrs. John—My! I should think they would get tired. Don't they ever sit down?

Farmer John—I guess not. Seats here cost about $70,000 apiece.

Thought it was Cocoi

During a meeting of councillors in one of the Lancashire towns the question of recreation for the hospital nurses was being discussed.

Several games were suggested, amongst which was the game of croquet.

A burly Lancashire councillor, who was noted for his eagerness to keep down expenditure, happened to come in at the moment, but failed to catch accurately the name of the subject under discussion. However, he immediately got upon his feet and objected to the increased expenditure saying at the same time that taty and coffee had been good enough for him all his life, and he thought the nurses could do very well without koki.

Yes, ma'am, a lot of 'em.

Then why didn't you bring them with you?

They're just like my photographs, ma'am. None of 'em does me justice.

Young Wife—It must be your imagination, dear. It says in the cookery book that it tastes excellent.

Positive Proof

Samuel Untermyer, the New York lawyer, said in Washington of a certain exposure:

The proof was positive—as positive as the proof against the barber.

There was a barber who was accused of secret inebriety, but his old patrons refused to credit such a charge.

A stanch old patron went to the man to be shaved one morning. The barber in silence began to lather him and then suddenly seized him by the nose.

Lathering away, the barber gripped the nose so firmly that its owner granted in pain:

Here, let go my nose!

But the barber, still holding on tight said as he lathered steadily on: Can't. If I did I'd fall down.

A MOTHER'S DUTY TO HER DAUGHTER

Requires That Her Blood Supply be Kept Rich, Red and Pure.

Every mother who calls to mind her own girlhood knows how urgently her daughter is likely to need help and strenuous during the years between school days and womanhood. It is then that growing girls droop and become fragile, bloodless and nervous. Nature is calling for more nourishment than the blood can supply and signs of distress are plainly evident in dull eyes, pallid cheeks, aching backs, a languid step, fits of depression, headaches and a dislike for food. These signs mean anaemia—that is bloodlessness.

The watchful mother takes prompt steps to give her girl the new, rich blood her system is thirsting for by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which make new blood and transform unhappy anaemic girls into robust, happy, bright-eyed young women. No other medicine has ever succeeded like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, because no other medicine can make that new, rich, red blood which brings health and vitality to weak, bloodless systems.

Miss Mamie Krouse, Cope-town, Ont., says: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a blessing to me. I had been a sufferer for almost two years from anaemia, and seemed, no matter what I tried, to be growing worse. I was very pale and seemed bloodless, suffered from frequent headaches, the least exertion would leave me completely tired out, and I was very much discouraged and fretful."

At last I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and got a half dozen boxes, and by the time they were used I was feeling much better. A few more boxes fully restored my health and I have since been well and strong and able once more to enjoy life."

These pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Corrected

Counsel, after severely cross-examining witness—How far exactly is it between these two towns?

Witness—About four miles as the crow flies.

Ah, remarked counsel, you mean as the crow flies.

No, no, said the Judge, suavely. It is as the fle crows.

Then they looked at one another and found there was something wrong.

CLEAR HEADED

Head Bookkeeper Must be Reliable

The chief bookkeeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the harm coffee did for him. (Tea is just as injurious because it contains caffeine, the same drug found in coffee).

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum a little over two years ago and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and coffee. It happened in this way:

"About three and a half years ago I had an attack of pneumonia, which left a memento in the shape of dyspepsia, or rather, to speak more correctly, neuralgia of the stomach. My 'cup of cheer' had always been coffee or tea, but I became convinced, after a time, that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my grocer one day and he suggested that I give Postum a trial.

"Next day it came, but the cook made the mistake of not boiling it sufficiently, and we did not like it much. This was, however, soon remedied, and now we like it so much that we will never change back. Postum, being a food beverage instead of a drug, has been the means of banishing my stomach trouble. I verily believe, for I am a well man today and have used no medicine."

"My work as chief bookkeeper in our Co.'s branch house here is of a very confining nature. During my coffee-drinking days I was subject to nervousness and 'the blues.' These have left me since I began using Postum, and I can conscientiously recommend it to those whose work confines them to long hours of severe mental exertion." Name given by Canadian Postum Co., Windsor, Ont.

"There's a reason," and it is explained in the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in 1848.

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

A Wise Precaution

Now Harry, go to Smith's the grocer, and get a quart of the best molasses, said his mother, and she handed the young hopeful a couple of good sized jugs.

When the boy had gone the vicar's wife said: You didn't tell him to get anything in the other jug. Is he going to leave it at the shop?

No, ma'am; he's going to bring it back here again.

But why send two jugs to get a quart of molasses?

Well, you see, it's this way. If he has a jug in each hand, he can't go dipping his finger in the molasses and eating it as he comes along.

Pills for Nervous Troubles.—The stomach is the centre of the nervous system, and when the stomach suspends healthy action the result is manifest in disturbances of the nerves. If allowed to persist, nervous debility, a dangerous ailment, may ensue. The first consideration is to restore the stomach to proper action, and there is no readier remedy for this than Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Thousands can attest the virtue of these pills in curing nervous disorders.

A '49ER

The late James R. Keene, himself almost a '49er, used to tell many a story about the characters of '49.

It was difficult in those days, he once said, to be a temperance man, for to refuse a drink with a '49er was a worse offence than to kiss the fellow's wife.

A '49er, twirling his long and drooping moustache, said to a tenderfoot in a bar-room:

Have some red eye with me.

Thank you—no, said the tenderfoot, a total abstainer, firmly.

There was a tense silence in the crowded bar. Then the '49er reached back to his hip-pocket and said with a weary sigh:

Helgho, can't I even take a drink without killing a man?

The Dangerous Stove

A French physician called on one of his patients, a lady, who was complaining of headache and general prostration. "I'll tell you what's the matter with you, madam, he said promptly: it's that stove you have over there. Those coal-burning stoves are reservoirs of poison—the deadliest things in the world."

But that stove cost me one hundred francs! protested the lady.

Never mind that; better lose any amount of money than your life. I'll tell you what I'll do; I'll give you twenty-five francs for it, and find some way of getting rid of the pernicious object.

The lady consented, and the doctor removed the stove.

A few days later the patient who thought of changing her residence, went to inspect a suite of rooms, and the first thing that met her gaze was the stove. Who lives here? she asked of the servant who was showing her over the rooms.

Madame A., madame, said the servant respectfully—Doctor B.'s mother-in-law.

Advice for the Minister

In preaching the minister had been rather long-winded, when the young wife remembered that she had left the dinner in the gas range without regulating the flame. She hastily wrote a note and slipped it to her husband, who was an usher. He thinking it was intended for the minister, calmly walked up and laid it on the pulpit.

The minister paused in the midst of his sermon and took the note with a smile which changed into a terrific frown as he read.

Please hurry home and shut out the gas.

Indignant Wife—I wonder what you would have done if you had found when men were first compelled to earn bread by the sweat of their brow?

Indolent Husband—I should have started a little notion store and sold handkerchiefs.

Wrong Diagnosis

The Amateur Sherlock—I am sorry to observe that you are in a precarious state of health. As you entered the ballroom I saw you clutch at your heart, while a look of agony crossed your face.

Mr. Snuffles—Heart, nothing! I have a cold and just discovered that I hadn't brought a handkerchief with me.

Right and Wrong

The amateur socialist was airing his views before a bunch of acquaintances, some of whom believed that his arguments possessed merit and others of whom believed otherwise. He spoke feelingly in the cause of public ownership and one of the progressives said:

I don't know as I'd go as far as you in this matter. But I do believe this—that many of the businesses now run as private enterprises should be controlled by the people.

Yes, spoke up a listener who had hitherto remained silent—the legislature, for instance.

Borden's Battle Hymn

Then out spake R. L. Borden,
The chief of all the state;
We boast a naval policy
Most marvellously great.
We'll order three big battleships,
For which we'll send our cheque,
To chase old England's enemies
From every quarter deck.
We'll pick out three loud-sounding names
Of great historic fame
And stick them on these battleships,
And launch them on the main.
We'll dub one the "Bob Rogers,"
A more inspiring name
Could never be selected;
You'd search for one in vain.
In fervid martial ardor
The second we'll call "Hughes,"
A braver man than Colonel Sam
No one would care to choose.
The third I'll christen "Hazen"—
The Honourable J. D.
Our doughty Minister of Marine,
And Lord of Fishery
And when at last the god of war
Lets Armageddon loose
We'll sit at home beside our wives
And read the battle news.
The clash of swords, the cannon's din,
War's havoc, battle's roar,
Will tell of British valour
As it always did before.
And when the deeds of bravery
Are recounted to our sons,
How fondly will we ponder
And tell our loving ones.
'Tis true we sent no heroes there
On any Dreadnaught's deck;
But furnished three big battleships
For which we sent our cheque.
We borrowed thirty millions
Of England's yellow gold
And gave it back to England—
How valorous and bold!
We furnished three big empty ships,
The Hazen, Sam and Bob,
But left the wars to Britain's tars,
For that's their proper job.
We left the wars to Britain's tars,
And saved our precious lives;

They fought and died for Empire—
We stayed at home with our wives.
So now, hurrah for England!
Hurrah for England's king.
Three cheers for three big empty ships,
We'll make the welkin ring.
Such is my naval policy,
Improve it if you can.
We'll launch three ships from Britain's slips,
But never send a man.

For Loss of Hair

We will pay for what you use if Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not promote the growth of your hair.

In all our experience with hair tonics the one that has done most to gain our confidence is Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We have such well-founded faith in it that we want you to try it at our risk. If it does not satisfy you in every particular, we will pay for what you use to the extent of a 30 day treatment.

If Rexall "93" Hair Tonic does not remove dandruff, relieve scalp irritation, stop the hair from falling and promote a new growth of hair, come back to us and ask us to return the money you paid for it, and we will promptly hand it back to you. You don't sign anything, promise anything, bring anything back, or in any way obligate yourself. Isn't that fair?

Doesn't it stand to reason that we would not make such a liberal offer if we did not truly believe that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will do all we claim for it—that it will do all and more than any other remedy?

We have everything there is a demand for, and are able to judge the merits of the things we sell. Customers tell us of their success. There are more satisfied users of Rexall "93" Hair Tonic than any similar preparation we sell.

Francis Willard Memorial

The Francis Willard memorial service held in the Ev. church on Monday evening under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. proved a marked success.

The attendance and offering was exceptionally good. The debate, "Resolved, that in the sight of justice the man who votes for the liquor traffic is just as guilty as the man who manufactures or sells it," which was the vital number of interest to the audience, was very ably presented. Mr. Grant and Miss Dollie Stark were the affirmative speakers, whilst Mr. Coffee and Miss Anna Martin upheld the negative.

Great credit is due to each of the speakers for the able way in which they presented their educative arguments, but in spite of Mr. Coffee's oratorical powers on the platform, the negative was destined to defeat, for facts are stubborn things and cannot be argued away.

W. C. T. U. Notice

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held in the Ev. church on Monday afternoon, March 10th, at 3 o'clock. The devotional service will be led by Mrs. W. L. Martin. One educational half hour will be devoted to a debate on the following subject: "Resolved, that the franchise withheld is an injustice to Canadian womanhood." The affirmative speakers will be Mrs. E. G. Reitzel and Mrs. R. LaBlanc; the negative, Mrs. T. Stark and Mrs. J. R. Good. The preparations for this meeting are full of promise and we are very desirous for a full attendance of the members, while all ladies of Didsbury and community are cordially invited to attend.

A Noble Woman Gone

On Sunday last Mrs. Frederick Cowman, well known for her countless acts of beneficence, passed to her eternal reward at her home fifteen miles west of Carstairs.

Born in Indiana sixty-two years ago, she spent her early married life in Kansas, whence she, her husband and family came to their ranch here eight years ago.

She soon became acquainted with and beloved by a wide circle of neighbors. Her helping hand and words of good cheer were always felt where needed most. She was an unusual woman, seeming to always know the right and kind thing to do at the right moment.

A husband, four daughters and two sons survive to mourn a wife and mother whose like is seldom found. After an impressive service at the house by the Rev. Dr. Wilson of Carstairs, the casket was laid to rest in the family plot in the Carstairs cemetery. (The Journal will please copy.)

Council Meets

The Town Council met on Monday night in the Council Chamber. Mayor Atkins, Councillors Chambers, Sinclair, Durrer, Osmond, Secretary St. Clair and Solicitor Patterson were present.

A few bills in the hands of the Secretary and which were O. K'd were passed.

Several matters relating to by-laws were discussed and there will be changes made in some of them, especially those controlling licenses.

The question of collecting back taxes was also talked over and the Council will hold a special meeting in a few days to decide on what action shall be taken to collect these taxes, which amount to over $6,000.

The Council then adjourned.

You judge a man not by what he promises to do, but by what he has done. That is the only true test. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy judged by this standard has no superior. People everywhere speak of it in the highest terms of praise. For sale by all dealers.

Masonic Dedication Ceremony

The local lodge of Masons, King Hiram Lodge No. 21, A. F. & A. M., held their dedication ceremony for their handsome new lodge rooms on Friday last and also held a lodge of instruction for this Masonic District.

The proceedings were attended by Most Wor. Bro. Patterson, Grand Master, and Wor. Bro. R. Hollinger, District Deputy G. M., and a very large number of brethren from outside points. In fact it was one of the most largely attended meetings ever held in Didsbury, and the visitors expressed their admiration in no uncertain terms of the comfortable, up-to-date quarters of the local lodge.

The proceedings were opened in the afternoon by the impressive ceremony of dedicating the new lodge rooms for purely Masonic purposes at which the Grand Master and his deputy took full charge forming a Grand Lodge with the Past Masters present, Wor. Bro. Peterson, one of the charter members of King Hiram, assisting.

After the ceremony of dedication the brethren dispersed for supper and assembled again at 7.30 for the purpose of holding a lodge of instruction under the direction of the Grand Master. There were no less than sixty-four members on the floor of the lodge for this meeting which somewhat hampered the proceedings but did not interfere with the great interest shown by those present in the beautiful Masonic ceremonies exemplified. The Olds and Innisfail lodges, of which there were 28 members present, put on the third degree of the York rite while members of the Didsbury and Carstairs lodges put on the third degree of the Canadian rite.

The Grand Master complimented the lodges on the way the work was done and also paid a neat compliment to the local lodge on their comfortable quarters.

About 12.30 p. m. the brethren adjourned to the Alexandra hotel for the purpose of showing their proficiency in the table degree, and there is no question but that all showed good knowledge of the work as well as being able to do the work in a most craftsmanlike manner. Mine hosts Findlay & Stevens had provided good working tools and the materials supplied were such that everyone who partook were greatly sustained for their future Masonic labors. Getting down to brass tacks the supper was excellent, and should be a good advertisement for the house to the outside visitors present.

The brethren from the north took the midnight train for the north and those from the south waited over till next day.

CHAPTER XLVIII
The Inquest

For a few terrible moments the struggle in the darkness went on.

Marner was in the mind of Harry's unseen foe, whose snake-like agility seemed greater than the strength shown. Fight as Harry might, he felt himself to be in an inferior position, with a weight of knees upon his chest and a human body only a little smaller and less powerful than his own forcing him down. Again and again the pillow was pushed up over his mouth, stifling the loud cries for help which he strove to utter.

But at the moment when it seemed that he was being overmatched, a woman's voice rang through the darkness.

Let him go! I command you let him go!

The sound was hollow and sepulchral, as though it came from the lips of a dead woman. But on the instant, the murderous fingers ceased their pressure, the weight which crippled Harry's movements was removed, and although he clutched wildly after his enemy and caught for a moment what seemed a thin, delicate-featured face in his hands, on the next they were empty, grasping at the air.

A faint light showed itself in the room as Harry sat up and stared round him. At the foot of the bed he could dimly discern the tall, stooping figure of a woman in a gown of dark material carrying in her hand a lantern which emitted but a feeble ray. Harry was about to light the candles on the table close to the bed when his action was arrested by her next words.

The light is sufficient, Harry. Remain where you are. Do you not remember me? I am your aunt, Isabel Clavel.

I believe you have saved my life—I told you to leave Crayborne, Lady Clavel said sternly. Why did you not listen to my warning? I used the same words to you and to Reuben Symonds. Where is Reuben now? Dead! And but for me you would be dead also!

She looked more like a spirit than a living woman as she stood there, her gaunt frame quivering with excitement, her black eyes staring out of her haggard face with something at once of menace and of appeal in their gaze.

My business now is to find out who it was who was trying to murder me, Harry said. I must get up and dress—

I forbid it! You are safe now. But you must make no attempt to find out anything. I exact it as the price of what I have done. Before the day comes you must leave Crayborne, and you must never return. You have no right here, no right to dare to claim the property and to try to marry Anne. As long as you remain in England you will be haunted and pursued. Go back to America, to your own people. You have no place here.

I shall stay until I have found out who it was that attacked me—

You will never do that! You were attacked by nothing living.

But I got hold of the fellow—

You thought so. But there was nothing there. You are fighting against dead things, Harry, things which are stronger than yourself. This will be my last warning. Get up at once and leave the place. Above all, do not attend the inquest. There will be no safety for you until you have put the sea between yourself and Crayborne—go!

On her last words she darted the lantern she was holding, and in the obscurity Harry heard her softly creep along the side of the bed in the direction of the point in the paneling whence the hand had come.

A few seconds after she had had time to disappear he lit the candles, and by their aid discovered that it was half-past two o'clock. He searched for his revolver and for his electric light contrivance, which had been removed from beneath a pillow and found them in a corner of the room. Then he dressed, left a note for Mrs. Anning, telling her that he should not return, and requesting her to send his things to his hotel in London. The first light of dawn stole into the Witch's Room as he drew aside the red curtains and gazed out intently in the direction of the woods of Loders Abbey, and a sharp pang that was of mingled grief, disappointment and longing crossed his heart at the thought of the Abbey's mistress.

One farewell glance at the sneering face of Helen, first Lady Clavel, in the picture over the chimney, and Harry took leave of the Manor Farm and its legends and its ghosts, and in the exquisite freshness tramped to Bloxham, and horrified a sleepy servant at the King's Head Hotel, by requiring food at half-past four in the morning.

Lady Clavel's warnings and his own experiences had made him resolve to avoid the Manor farm as a place of residence; but they had altered no whit of his determination to attend the inquest upon his cousin and to tell the exact truth as to Sammy's connection with him.

At the door appeared he was there, and he saw, standing by the door, a woman who seemed to be the same as the woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham. He knew that he was looking at the same woman, and he knew that she was the same woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham. He knew that she was the same woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham.

In answer to questions put to him, he related all he knew of coming in connection with the case coming up to the court. He said that he had seen the woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham. He said that he had seen the woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham. He said that he had seen the woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham.

There was much low-voiced talking and there were a good many questions asked. And when the inquest was over, and when the jury had returned their verdict, and when the judge had pronounced his sentence, and when the woman who had been seen in the room at Bloxham had been seen in the room at Bloxham.

Harry knew as he left the court that it was chiefly his duty, but he was in no way dismayed. In the night, he took the train which took him back to London, and before he had been a week in London, he had received the telegram to Lady Anne.

I am sorry, dear, to hurt your charitable heart, he wrote, but I must speak the truth today. The fellow is a danger to society, and will only be safe in an asylum for criminal lunatics. Forgive me, nevertheless, I have not obeyed you. Please telegraph to the Cyril Hotel if I may, see you to-morrow at about four.

HARRY.

Before he went to bed, and high her answer came.

I am sorry, but I could not prevent you from doing what you thought your duty. Come to-morrow.

ANNE.

He found her, as before, waiting for him just beyond the lodge, the gate of which she opened to him. She was wearing her hat and gloves, and instead of letting him in, she joined him outside.

You must go back by the five-twenty, she said; and I shall go over to Bloxham with you by train, so we can have more time for talk. Not I would rather you did not come into the grounds. Let us talk somewhere in the open, away from these trees with their whispering leaves and the listening ears they may hide.

She glanced round nervously as she spoke. Harry took her gloved hand and drew it through his arm.

Anne, he said, you are terribly afraid of someone about this place. Is it Lady Clavel? Or is Sammy hiding here, and is he? Or—

Is it George Anning?

She looked up into his face for a moment before she answered.

Sammy is not here, she said at last. But, perhaps, I am afraid of all these. What made you think of George Anning?

I have reason to know that I have another enemy here he replied after a pause. The only time I saw George Anning at Bloxham he gave me a most malevolent look. Perhaps that is why I thought of him.

Lady Anne shuddered.

They are all mad here, she whispered. Harry, I have sent for you because I want you to promise me never to come here again.

You must go out to America, see your mother and tell her all about me. Then, if she consents to receive me I will join you out there and become your wife.

CHAPTER XLIX

The Trap

Remember there is a great deal to be said for me, Lady Anne said before she parted from Harry at Bloxham station.

How will your mother like the idea of your marrying a woman four years older than you, and whose name has been connected with such horrible tragedies as mine has? It is not even as if I loved you—

Don't you love me in the least, asked Harry humbly, leaning forward in his seat and taking her hands in his as she sat opposite to him in the train. Perhaps it is presumptuous of me to expect it. But the fact is, Anne, I worship you and it seems odd you should feel nothing for me. At least, you don't dislike me?

She looked at him, and at sight of his frank, handsome countenance the frowning lines to his eyebrows and his loyal nature, tears suddenly rushed into her eyes and an expression of tenderness softened her features.

My dear Harry, I like you as much as it is possible for me to like any man, she said. You are well worth liking. Although you are a Clavel you have contrived to be honorable, brave and true. I am sorry you love me. I would much rather you only liked me. But if you want a commitment, I will say this: that no woman with a heart in her body could marry you without growing to love you.

He had never kissed her, and he was encouraged to bend forward to do so. But Lady Anne drew back with a deep blush.

Not now, she murmured. When I join you in America. There is Bloxham station.

One minute, Anne! Have I your promise that you will become my wife immediately after I have obtained my mother's consent to our marriage?

She hesitated for a moment.

Do you know where your mother lives when she is in Canada when I last heard from her?

I remember, Lady Anne said, that as soon as she consents, knowing everything, I will come out to America and marry you.

Will you come about living on the same terms as your heart draw you back to Yorkshire?

The train had stopped. Harry sprang out and helped her to descend.

I have suffered too much in Dorsetshire, she said as they stood for a moment side by side on the platform. I would be more true to say my heart is buried here. America would be a change. Perhaps when I am old I might want to come back, but what is the use of planning? I may not live to be old. Good-bye, Harry; you must start at once. We shall meet in America.

She gave him both her hands as he re-entered the compartment and leaned from the window; and as the train steamed away, she watched him from the platform through a mist of tears.

Harry, on his part, was painfully rebellious. He had not refused to obey her, but he had only promised that he would obtain his mother's consent after telling her all the details of his engagement. To communicate with her was not difficult, for on his arrival at the hotel, he found a cablegram waiting him in which told him her exact address.

To her, therefore he dispatched a message of extraordinary length. Money was not an object with this grandson of a millionaire, and by his cablegram his mother was made acquainted with all the leading facts of Lady Anne's life, as Harry knew them, and of his passionate desire to wed her at the earliest possible opportunity.

The next morning her answer came, gushing and affectionate. That her son had chosen a beauty with a title charmed Harry's mother, and she expressed herself as burning with anxiety to embrace her daughter-in-law.

With the cablegram in his pocket, Harry took the mid-day train to Crayborne, resolved upon showing the message to Lady Anne and claiming forthwith the fulfilment of her promise.

Ridiculously Simple

A traveller, recently returned from Mexico, relates how he was shown through some ancient buildings, convents and jails that were erected by the Spaniards centuries ago.

In the wall of one of the ancient edifices he saw a small opening, so he naturally inquired of his Mexican guide what purpose it served.

He told him that it was one of those buildings in which criminals were formerly walled up alive.

But what was the use of the hole in the wall? he asked.

Well, sir, replied the guide, as long as the prisoner lived his food was given to him on a plate, and he passed back the empty plate through the hole; but when the prisoner handed it back with the food on it untouched the gaoler knew that he was dead all ready, and didn't give him any more.

They cure constipation, indigestion, expel worms, break up colds and make teething easy. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Yorkshire was the scene, and the event in progress was a wedding. The speaking parts in the ceremony had all been played, and now bride and bridegroom and their friends were in the vestry putting the matter into writing.

But the clergyman was not youthful nor was he swift. Time passed and the bridegroom became more and more flustered.

You seem in a great hurry, remarked the officiating cleric at last. Have you a train to catch?

The happy man stood stock still and scratched his head in perplexity. Well, sir, he replied good naturedly, it ain't a train, sir, but I don't want to be late for a football match!

Tommy Was There Too

It was evident that something of more importance than usual was weighing on the small boy's mind. Three times he passed the door of the house, and peered through the window, before he dared to enter.

Then he made his appearance with an air that dozens of broken windows and bushels of stolen apples could not have given him, and remarked, Mrs. Jones, little Tommy's new football's burst!

And how did that happen dear?

Well, Tommy and me was playing with it when the steam-roller went over him.

Seizing the Opportunity

He had obtained a place in an estate agent's office and was doing everything he could for the interests of his employers. The other evening he was at a social gathering and was asked to sing. He responded with 'Home, sweet home.' His friends were a little surprised at the selection, but he was heartily applauded.

Stepping forward he said: I am glad you like the song. There is nothing like 'Home, sweet home,' and let me say that the company I represent is selling homes on terms to suit everybody, within forty minutes ride of the city. Everybody ought to have a home. If you don't want to live in one of these houses yourself it's the chance of your life for an investment.

EXPLORE GREAT NORTH

STEFANSSON WILL AGAIN GO TO ARCTIC CIRCLE

Explorer is Going Under a Commission From the Canadian Government—Will be Well Equipped to Carry on Work, and Will Explore Vast Unknown Areas.

New York.—Viktor Stefansson, discoverer of the blonde Eskimoes, made public his plans for the four year expedition which he plans to lead to the Arctic next May. During this time he hopes to wipe off the map much of the white space indicating the unexplored regions of the far north.

Stefansson and his companions—eight or ten picked men of science—will sail from Esquimaux B.C., the latter part of May or early in June, on the 247 ton steam whaler Karluk, barkentine rigged, purchased for the expedition by the Canadian Government. The Karluk now lies in San Francisco harbor; during the next ten days she will be overhauled and sent to Esquimaux where she will be fitted up as a Government vessel.

From Esquimaux the barkentine will carry the party as far north as the ice will permit. If the weather be fine and the winds from the east they expect in September to reach land somewhere in Beaufort Sea, now unexplored. There they will establish a base, sending the vessel back and remain during the winter, but if Western winds prevail and the Beaufort Sea is filled with ice, the expedition probably will land at Herschel Island, remain there a week to establish a primary base, return to Prince Patrick Land and either there or at Herschel Island spend the winter. In the spring they will go north. They will return to civilization in September 1916. Dr. R. M. Anderson, who was with Stefansson on his last trip, will be second in command. The others have not been selected as yet.

A powerful wireless apparatus, designed to carry messages 1,000 miles will keep the explorers in daily touch with the world. This apparatus will be built at Herschel Island or at the unnamed land where they may establish their base on the shores of Beaufort Sea.

For food they will have pemmican and malted milk while gliding over the ice; while they are on land their own rifles must keep the larger birds, Caribou, seal, ptarmigan, musk oxen, foxes and other Polar animals will provide food.

A million square miles of snow and ice north of the North American continent and Siberia will be explored as far as possible. The party is not searching for the pole; if they find it it will be by accident. Mr Stefansson said. What they want to do is to open the locked lands and seas of the north. They do not contemplate going with the ice-drift as Roald Amundsen plans to do, but they will send the Karluk back each autumn to Esquimaux and have her return to the base each spring.

Stefansson will visit the blonde Eskimoes again and bring them back to civilization in moving pictures. To bring them back in flesh, he said would be murder; they could not survive the germ of civilization.

While in the neighborhood of their stamping ground he expects to explore the interior of Victoria Land, and there expects to define the extent of what he believes to be the largest and one of the richest copper countries under the sun.

Betrayed by Finger Prints

Ottawa.—A striking example of the value of the finger print system to track down criminals was given by the Dominion police. On the twenty-fourth of this month, Inspector Foster who has charge of the finger print work of the Dominion police, received in Regina under the names of James Christopher McGregor, charged with entering a house in that city and threatening to kill a woman who was the only occupant of the house at the time.

McGregor's finger prints proved him to be a well known criminal who had committed a number of crimes, and who at the time of his latest enterprise, was a prisoner out on parole from the Manitoba penitentiary, where he had been sent for seven years in 1909.

McGregor had several aliases, and prior to his latest robbery he had escaped from the insane asylum at Selkirk.

Hudson Bay Terminus

Ottawa.—Fort Nelson will be the Government's choice for the Hudson Bay Railway terminus, unless upon completion of the surveys and inspection it might be thought advisable to decide otherwise.

This was Hon. Frank Cochrane's answer to Hon. George Graham's question in the House. To Fort Nelson from Le Pas is 420 miles, while to Fort Churchill it is 506 miles approximately.

Expenditures on the line since last season are as follows:

Surveys, $156,431; construction $354,820; Le Pas bridge $108,000; rails and other supplies $195,343.

Duchess Back at Ottawa

Premier Borden, Hon. Martin Burrell, and other state representatives were present to welcome the royal party home.

DOES NOT INTEND TO IMPORT SCHOOL MARRS

Alberta Needs Teachers But no Importation Intended, Says Minister

Edmonton.—The question of the importation of American teachers has been a live issue in Alberta for some time and the charge has been made and not specifically denied that the Sifton government plans the wholesale importation of instructors from the other side. The minister of education, however, went the length of saying that no policy for the importation of American teachers had been adopted.

The laws governing the department of education with regard to the qualifications and appointments of the teachers, said the minister, are the same today as they were when Mr. Haultain was in charge of the government of the North-West Territories. It is true that there has been a demand for teachers that was more than equal to the supply. Last year the province was 414 teachers short.

It is a little early yet for me to get the figures for this year. The province has advertised its needs in this respect throughout Eastern Canada, and the facts have been placed before the teachers of Great Britain with a view towards improving conditions. Has the province offered any inducements to teachers to come here from the United States? the minister asked.

The same inducements are offered teachers from that country as from any other. We have our standards of qualifications and training and these must be complied with. In certain instances where school districts found it impossible to secure certificated teachers, temporary permits were granted to applicants who convinced the department that their academic training was adequate.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

Secretary of Old People's Home Favors Scheme

Ottawa.—The chief witness before the Old Age Pensions Committee of the House was Mrs. Taft, secretary of the Old People's Home, Winnipeg, and member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Basing her opinions upon her experience in connection with her work, Mrs. Taft said that she strongly favored the establishment of an Old Age Pension system in Canada.

While the institution of which she was secretary was generously aided by the provincial government as well as by private subscriptions, it was inadequate to meet the demands made upon it by the old and needy.

Mrs. Taft thought that while the introduction of a pension scheme would not or could not mean that there would be no further need for homes for the aged or poor asylums, it would at least have the effect of obviating the necessity of those with some little means entering such institutions, thus preventing to a great extent the segregation of the old, the desirability of which, she said, was well known to all with experience in the work of charitable institutions.

ANARCHY AT DOORS OF UNITED STATES

London Press Comment on the Unsatisfactory Mexican Situation

London.—An increasing number of Englishmen, especially those whose investments are concerned, watch with growing anxiety the steady spread of anarchy in Mexico and the extension of the area of brigandage brings British lives into danger, also imperilling large British as well as American and Canadian interests. Conviction grows that the United States must fulfill the self-imposed task of protector, but the danger of the situation is not overlooked.

The Daily Mail reflects the spreading uneasiness and recalls Mexico is nearly twice as large as the area of operations in the South African war. It has 15,000 miles of railway, but vast districts are untouched by rail ways.

If a quarter of a million British troops took two years to conquer barely half a million of Boers in South Africa at a cost of $200,000,000 what could be expected from 70,000 American troops pitted against fifteen million Mexicans, and thousands to whom guerilla warfare is second nature. French experience showed Mexico to be a veritable hornet's nest for foreign troops. They continued anarchy at the very door of the U.S. which is intolerable to the civilized world.

Extending French Army Service

Paris.—Eugene Etienne, French minister of war, has submitted to the cabinet a bill extending the service of soldiers of all arms in the French army to three years instead of two years, as at present. This measure will increase the peace footing of the army fifty per cent. A measure of this kind was expected, and it appears to be in accord with the wave of patriotic feeling passing over the country. The cabinet has not discussed any specific project, but is committed to large increases in the army.

Was in Famous Charge of Light Brigade

Toronto.—Sergeant George Pearce, the last survivor of the Royal Artillery Battery, which was in advance of the cavalry at the charge of the Light Brigade at Balaklava, died here. In Major Collins' opinion he was the only survivor in Canada or in the colonies or Great Britain of those who were at the charge. He was in his eighty-second year.

POWERS TO DEMOBILIZE

AUSTRIA AND RUSSIA WILL WITHDRAW TROOPS

An Amnesty Decree on a Large Scale is Being Prepared and Peace is not far off—Cold Weather in Balkans Interferes With Military Operations. London.—The operations of the five armies engaged in the Balkan war have been brought practically to a standstill by the winter weather, which is accompanied by frequent snow storms and by the bad conditions of the roads.

The daily official despatches upon which the world is now compelled to rely for its news of occurrences in the theatre of war, for the most part repeat the statement that nothing of importance has occurred.

A despatch received from Constantinople, however, goes a little further and says that there has been skirmishing on the Tchebalja lines before Constantinople by Turkish volunteers who, it is claimed, met with some success. These must have been of a minor nature, as the Bulgarians earlier in the week were said to have withdrawn further to the westward. The roads in that vicinity are in such a frightful state that the transport columns found it difficult to keep the troops at the front supplied with provisions and ammunition.

St. Petersburg.—Demobilization of the Austrian and Russian forces has been decided upon, according to information from a most reliable source as a result of a recent exchange of letters between Emperor Francis Joseph and the Russian Emperor. The extra units concentrated on the respective frontiers, it is said, will be simultaneously withdrawn in the near future and the reserves disbanded.

It is understood that the details of this measure were discussed at a special council, which assembled at Tsarkoe Zelo, under the presidency of Emperor Nicholas. The Premier and the ministers of Foreign Affairs, War and Marine, and the chief of the general staff were present.

The action coincides with the preparations for the Tercentenary celebration of the Romanoff Dynasty, which it is desired to mark by peace in international relations and goodwill in internal politics. An amnesty decree on a large scale is now being prepared.

RECORDS AS MEMORIAL

Scott's Papers It is Suggested Would Serve National Purpose

London.—Sir Edgar Speyer told a New York Times correspondent that the British Antarctic committee was well satisfied with the present state of the Scott fund, which now amounted to nearly $1,000,000.

He added that it had not yet been decided how far the fund would be kept open. The committee is waiting to see the government's proposal before setting a limit. He added: We are not likely to adopt Lord Curzon's suggestion of a Scott memorial hall, owing to the fact that we do not attach great importance to a concrete memorial. Personally I feel that the deeds of Captain Scott and his companions and the forthcoming book will be the only necessary memorial and also the best memorial.

Sir Edgar said he expected that the expenses of compiling and publishing the book would be about $50,000.

NEW C.P.R. STATIONS

Eighteen New Buildings Promised for Saskatchewan by C.P.R.

Winnipeg.—In addition to its enormous programme for construction of new lines throughout the West during 1913, the C.P.R. has arranged to build about thirty-three new stations which will be required at various points.

It is understood that the majority of these buildings will be erected in Saskatchewan, where eighteen new ones will be constructed before the close of the year. Where these additional buildings are to be placed has not yet been decided, but it is understood that they will be located along those branch lines which were constructed last year, and placed at the points where the districts are the most thickly populated. Twelve will be built in Alberta and three in Manitoba.

SIR IAN HAMILTON TO INSPECT MILITIA

Announcement Received With Great Favor Among Canadian Soldiers

Ottawa.—The announcement by the minister of militia to the Cavalry Association that Sir Ian Hamilton would inspect the Canadian militia this summer caused genuine satisfaction among the cavalrymen. Sir Ian Hamilton, now inspector of the overseas forces, was the commander in South Africa under whom the Canadian cavalry, artillery and mounted infantry served and consequently the men who wear South African medals will be glad that he is to inspect them. Col. Hughes said that Sir Ian Hamilton would probably visit all the camps during the summer training. He also announced that Lord Dunsford would probably visit some of the camps.

Prussian Loan

Berlin.—The Prussian Empire has decided on a loan for the military aggregating $137,500,000. Of this sum $100,000,000 will be of Prussian short term four per cent. treasury notes, payable in 1917, and $25,000,000 Prussian four's and $12,500,000 of Imperial four's, not redeemable before 1925.

ANTARCTIC CLAIMS TWO MORE VICTIMS

Mawson Party Loses Two of Its Members—Forced to Spend Another Winter

Sydney, N.S.W.—Two members of the Mawson Antarctic expedition, Lieutenant Ninnis, an Englishman, and Dr. Merz, a Swiss, have died. Dr. Mawson and his party of six companions have been left for the winter on Adelle Land, a barren tract in the Antarctic because they were unable to reach the expedition's ship Aurora before she was compelled to leave. The news was received here by wireless from Adelle Land via Macquarie Island. The party left Tasmania in 1911 accompanied by a large body of scientific men, to explore thoroughly the regions around the southern magnetic pole.

Lieutenant B. E. S. Ninnis, of the famous Royal Fusiliers regiment, was a friend of Captain Lawrence Oates, of Inniskilling Dragoons, who perished while returning from the South Pole with Captain Scott.

Dr. Merz, a prominent scientist and sportsman, was the ski jumping champion of Switzerland in 1908.

Lieutenant Ninnis was the expert of the expedition on surveying and sledging.

The wireless messages hitherto received from the Aurora do not state the cause of his death or that of Dr. Merz.

The expedition started out with the intention of exploring and naming the unknown lands of the Antarctic and making numerous observations around the magnetic pole. According to the wireless reports received from Dr. Mawson, the principal objects of the expedition were attained.

Unfortunately Dr. Mawson and six of his companions, after they had been picked up by the Aurora, under another expedition, and were unable to rejoin the ship, which was compelled to leave them to spend another year in the Antarctic. Professor David, who was a member of Sir Ernest Shackleton's expedition, received the following wireless dispatch from Adelle Island:

Dr. Douglas Mawson and several of his men missed the Aurora, which had gone to fetch them under the command of Captain J. K. Davis, Lieutenant B. E. S. Ninnis of the City of London Regiment of Royal Fusiliers, and Dr. Merz, who was ski champion of Switzerland in 1908, are both dead. All the others are well. Dr. Mawson and six other members of his party probably will winter on Adelle Island.

AMAZING STORY OF TREACHERY

Claimed Russian Officers Sold Plans of Fortresses to Japanese

Paris.—An amazing story is related in a Geneva dispatch to the Excelsior, which has to do with the Russian Baron Ygor Tiliusky, now at Zurich. The baron declares that he holds a claim on the Japanese government for $70,000,000. According to him, three Russian staff officers of revolutionary tendencies sold the plans of the Pacific fortresses, including Port Arthur, to the Japanese, at the outbreak of the Japo-Russian war. For political reasons they desired the defeat of Russia.

They received in payment three cheques amounting to little more than $23,000,000 each, payable at Tokio, March 22, 1915. The officers further contracted to remain in the services of Japan until the cheques were paid. Baron Tiliusky and a partner named Swetky went to Zurich in 1911 and endeavored to raise money on the cheques through a local financier. Negotiations were opened with banks in London, Amsterdam and Dresden, but they refused to make any advances without seeing the original contract.

In the meantime, according to the story, the Japanese embassy learned of the affair and reported it to Tokio. The consul of Zurich was instructed to investigate. The Russian government also took up the matter and sent the Russian military attaché at Berne to Zurich to make inquiries.

Ottoman Mission Failed

Constantinople.—The mission to London of Ibrahim Hakki Pasha on behalf of the Ottoman Government has failed. His object was to persuade the powers to support the claim of Turkey to the retention of Adrianople. He was, however, unable to prevail upon the powers to accept the Porte's note as a basis for fresh peace negotiations, and he had no authority to go beyond the proposals contained in that document. Although members of the Turkish cabinet are in favor of peace, the war element shows no tendency to weaken its attitude. Military operations are still confined to skirmishes at various points along the front. Fighting on any extended scale is improbable for the present owing to the inclemency of the weather.

Rush to Canada Will Break all Records

London.—Steamship authorities say that the Canadian emigration season begins three weeks earlier this year than usual. Canada's fame is so well established that every available berth has already been engaged in every outgoing steamer until well in May. The only regret is that the large St. Lawrence boats now building will not be available until mid-summer. They could easily be filled.

This large overflow of population to Canada is causing increased uneasiness, especially in the rural districts here, where the scarcity of farm labor is greatly harassing agriculturists.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL

LESSON X.—FIRST QUARTER, FOR MARCH 9, 1913

Text of the Lesson, Gen. xix, 12-17, 23-29—Memory Verses, 15, 16—Golden Text, II Cor. v, 17—Commentary

It does seem too bad to hurry over these lessons after the fashion of the suggestion of those who have assigned them, but the faithful teacher will take up the intervening portions and endeavor to omit nothing. Every part of the record of the visit of the Lord and the angels to Abraham in chapter xviii is most fascinating and most instructive and practical.

See the Lord of glory in human form, as doubtless He also appeared to Adam and Eve in Eden. See Him and His two companions, the two angels, also in the form of men, accepting Abraham's hospitality and actually eating the food prepared by Abraham and Sarah. Consider that He also ate in His immortal resurrection body.

Think of the breakfast He prepared for His disciples on the shore of Galilee and also of eating and drinking with Him at His table in His kingdom.

Do not omit to notice the water for their feet. Consider His reference to the omission of this by Simon (Luke vii, 44) and see Him attending to it Himself in John xiii. Contrast Sarah's three measures of meal unleavened (xviii, 6) with the woman's three measures of meal leavened of Matt. viii, 33. See the great saying of xviii, 14: Is anything too hard for the Lord? And compare Jer. xxxii, 17-27.

In xviii, 22, see the Lord and Abraham alone together, while the two angels go on their way to Sodom to rescue Lot. Hear Abraham pleading for Sodom and the Lord's assurance that if there were but ten righteous men in the city He would not destroy it. Contrast the greater sin of Israel when the presence of such men as Noah, Daniel and Job could not prevent the judgment from falling upon them and the intercession of Moses or Samuel would not avail (Ezek. xiv, 14-20; Jer. xv, 1) more tolerable for Sodom than for Capernaum in the day of judgment (Matt. xi, 23, 24).

We have seen Lot pitching his tent toward Sodom and later dwelling in Sodom (xiii, 12; xiv, 12) but now we see him a ruler in Sodom, sitting in the gate of Sodom (xix, 1). That means getting on in the world, but it means such a fellowship with the world as angels cannot approve, for they preferred to abide in the street rather than enter Lot's house.

When they communicated to Lot their business, that they had been sent to destroy the city because of its iniquity, which cried greatly to God, they told Lot to tell his family and relatives to flee from the city because of the judgment that was about to come. They paid no heed to Lot's message, however, and he seemed to them as one that mocked.

So much for the value of a testimony against the world by one who is conformed to the world. The life and conduct of Lot is such a problem that if the spirit by Peter had not told us that he was a righteous man (II Pet. ii, 7, 8) we might never have supposed that he was such a one. Such a testimony concerning such a man should prevent us from passing judgment on any one as to whether they are the Lord's or not. See Rom. xiv, 13; I Cor. 4, 5.

In the morning the two angels took Lot and his wife and their two daughters by the hand and brought them forth without the city, urging them to escape for their lives and look not behind them lest they should be consumed in the destruction of the city.

The perverseness and unbelief of Lot are seen in his refusal to escape to the mountain and in his fear that He who had delivered him from Sodom would let some evil befall him in the mountain. See the marvelous grace of God in sparing Zoar at his request. How wonderful beyond all comprehension the sin of man and the grace of God! There is, however, a limit to His forbearance if sin is persisted in, for, though He is long suffering and not willing that any should perish, the day of the Lord will come (II Pet. iii, 9, 10).

From chapter xix, 15-23, it looks as if the day on which Sodom and Gomorrah were destroyed began with a clear sky, a morning of sunshine after a night of the usual sins to which the cities were given over. If the sons-in-law of Lot happened to mention to any of their friends the visit of their father and his strange message concerning the approaching doom it probably caused only laughter. But the clouds gathered, the storm broke, the fire and brimstone fell, and that was the last morning on earth for the inhabitants of those cities.

The Lord Jesus Christ who sent the deluge in the days of Noah and the fire that destroyed those cities, has said: As it was in the days of Lot, even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of Man is revealed. (Luke xviii, 26; xxviii, 30; II Thess. i, 7, 9).

He also said: Remember Lot's wife (Luke xviii, 32). And when the day these Old Testament records are recalled, as they so often are, it is the Lord Jesus who is thus held up for scorn and contempt and through Him, God the Father, for all of His words and works were the Father's through Him (John xii, 49; xiv, 10).

5,000 Facts About Canada

The public will welcome the 1913 edition of "5,000 Facts About Canada," compiled by Frank Yeigh, the acknowledged authority on things Canadian and the author of "Through the Heart of Canada." Ten thousand copies are now sold annually, which find their way all over Canada and the empire, indeed the world.

"The Facts booklet is stuffed as full of information as a sausage is of meat," is the happy and true way an English journal puts it, and the new issue, which includes many new features and improvements, such as a colored map of the Dominion, presents a striking story of the wonderful advance of Canada in a single year. We now talk in billions.

The booklet is issued at 25 cents a copy by the Canadian Facts Pub. Co., 588 Huron street, Toronto, and is sold by all the leading news dealers.

Obituary

Augustus Gilchrist was born in Argyle, Washington County, N. Y., on June 20th, 1851. Thence he moved, with his parents, to Henderson County, Ill., and afterward to Red Oak, Iowa, where he lived till seven years ago, at which time he came to Canada, where he resided at the time of his death. He leaves a wife, one son, Earl, and one daughter, Mrs. Earnest St. Clair, three brothers and two sisters, Mrs. M. J. Bake of Red Oak, Iowa, and Mrs. D. C. Seaman of Los Angeles, Cal. Deceased was a man of sunny disposition, a kind hearted husband and loving father and a friend to all. He had a long sickness but was patient through it all and cheerfully faced the end of his earthly pilgrimage.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. G. Gilchrist and family wish to take this means of sincerely thanking all those kind friends who sustained them by their help and sympathy during the sickness and at the death of their loving husband and father.

Live Stock Feeding

Right now, before he decides upon what crops he will put in this spring, is the time for the Alberta farmer to figure on what extent he will go into live stock feeding during the winter of 1913-14. Last year the out-turn of wheat in the province showed a decrease while oats production took a decided jump. This encouraging sign should be even more evident during the coming season. Western Canada's foremost live stock expert states that as an all 'round feed oats cannot be beaten and nowhere can better crops of oats be grown than in Alberta. Every Alberta farmer should consider oats his leading crop but he should not be satisfied with simply raising the grain; he should cut some green for fodder and utilize the balance of his crop for chop and feed every ounce of it right on his place.

The Alberta farmer should get no idea that livestock feeding operations require elaborate or expensive plants. There is not a single district in the province where stock cannot be wintered out of doors. In fact, those who have fed inside and outside say that the animals do much better in the open. Cattle, hogs and sheep will well repay those fattening them during the winter, even if the feeding stock has to be purchased. Agriculturists here may get many profitable lessons by studying the experiences of husbandmen in the older districts. Our soil is probably the most fertile in the world, but there is no use trying to fool ourselves into thinking that it will stand continuous cropping to grain and give paying crops forever without fertilization. In addition to this is the fact that mixed farming pays a continuous income; those who have practised it in Alberta have found the system good.

For instance a farmer writing to the Canadian Pacific Railway the other day, in the course of his letter said: "A mixed farmer always has something to sell if it is only a pig or some butter. It is surprising how handy the price of a good hog comes in when you go to pay your store bill, and again it is sometimes a $500 team of horses that makes the mixed farmer smile, because generally it is the straight grain grower who is the buyer." The same day came a letter to the same company from a farmer in Iowa who has bought a section here and is coming up in the spring. He said in part: "I want you to have six or eight high grade dairy cows and some brood sows ready to turn over to me when I arrive. I don't want to have to wait till I get a crop before my land starts to make money for me; I'm going to start right in making money from the day I arrive." He is an experienced farmer and knows the right way to conduct his business.

Every Alberta farmer should make up his mind that this year he is going to raise some stock; get some brood sows, dairy cows, feeder cattle or sheep, and start in right now to figure on raising the feed for them. Those in the districts where it has been proven successful should certainly start a plot of alfalfa. Those to the north can rely upon the native hay for part of the ration. Oats and barley, the former either green or ripe and the latter for chop, give big crops in all parts of the province. When Alberta farmers make up their minds to ship nothing from their farms except their wheat, and feed everything else,

The Diplomatic Salesman
An elderly lad entered a shop and asked to be shown some tablecloths. The salesman brought a pile and showed them to her, but she said she had seen these before—nothing suited her.
Haven't you something new? she asked.
The man then brought another pile and showed them to her. These are the newest pattern, he said. You will notice the edge runs round the border and the centre is in the middle.
Dear me, yes! I will take half a dozen of those, said the lady.

THE BLESSING OF MOTHERHOOD
Healthy Mothers and Children Make Happy Homes

Motherhood is woman's highest sphere in life. It is the fruition of her dearest hopes and greatest desires; yet thousands of noble women through some derangement have been denied this blessing. In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong. This is evidenced by the following letters which are genuine and truthful:

London, Ont.—"I wish to thank you for the benefit I received by taking your famous medicine, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before my baby was born I was so ill I could not stand long or walk any distance. I had to lie down nearly all the time. After I took your medicine I felt like a new woman. I could work from morning till night and was happy and well. I certainly think it relieves pain at childbirth and recommend it to every woman who is pregnant. You may use this testimonial if you like. It may help some other woman."—Mrs. FRANK CORBIN, 132 Adelaide St., London, Ont.

Brooklyn, N.Y.—"I was ailing all the time and did not know what the matter was. I wanted a baby but my health would not permit it. I was nervous, my side ached and I was all run down. I heard that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was good and took the medicine. I have now a beautiful baby and your Compound has helped me in every way."—Mrs. J. J. SRAWANT, 230 Humboldt St., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Herring at Prince Rupert
An unique condition is reported at the present time in the harbor of Prince Rupert, the Pacific terminus of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. Myriads of herrings are swarming close to the shore and attracting numbers of visitors to watch the moving banks of silver that gleam and scintillate just below the surface of the water. All kinds of methods are being employed to scoop them out of the water—in many cases simply for the sport of the thing, the fish being immediately returned to their native element. Some mess boys from one of the ships let down a wire waste paper basket and brought up a full load at the first attempt, while an ordinary bucket let down is reported to have met with equal success. In one case the herring managed to turn over a seine net which they had filled and it is said to be an actual fact that the vast mass of fish close to the shore heaves and tosses about the small craft and scows riding at anchor there. The run will last for another couple of months.

A visitor at the seaside went into a local postoffice, and with the object of getting into conversation, asked the postmaster what his views were as to suffragettes.
Haven't any views of that kind, replied the official, but we've got some fine postcards of the new viaduct, the Baptist Church, and the new library.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia.

A small boy who had been naughty was told by his mother that he must take a whipping. He flew up stairs and hid in a far corner under a bed. Just then the father came home. The mother told him what had occurred. Pa went upstairs and proceeded to crawl under the bed toward the youngster, who whispered excitedly: Hello pop, is she after you too?

SHE TOOK HER FRIEND'S ADVICE AND DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HER SON

Straight and Simple Statement Tells of Another Grand Cure by the Old Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Springhaven, Yarmouth Co., N.S. (Special)—Simple and straight to the point is the statement of Mrs. Erven C. Trefry, of this place, but it tells of another grand cure by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"My fifteen-year-old son Angus," Mrs. Trefry states, "suffered from pain in his back, headache, and a pain over the eyes."

"He was so bad he could not walk across the floor. My friends advised me to give him Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cured him."

That young Trefry's kidneys were wrong is evidenced by the cure. Dodd's Kidney Pills only cure diseased kidneys. They never fail to do that.

The reason they cure rheumatism, backache, gravel, dropsy, Bright's disease, diabetes, and kindred diseases, is that these all spring from disordered kidneys.

If you have any of these diseases you haven't tried Dodd's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbors. They'll tell you Dodd's Kidney Pills always cure them.

A Member of Parliament has been showing round a letter that he has just received from one of his constituents. The writer is evidently worried about the provisions of the Deceased Wife's Sister act, and in the course of the letter he asks if it is compulsory.

PALATIAL C.P.R. HOTEL AT CALGARY

The latest link in the chain of Hotels owned and operated by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, is now in course of construction at Calgary. This Hotel, in size and architectural design, as well as the sumptuousness of the furnishings and general appointments, will rival anything of its kind in Western Canada. The cost of the Hotel is said to be approximately $1,200,000, and it is expected that it will be opened for patronage some time during the coming summer, or in any event before the end of 1913.

Not to be Caught

A distant relative had taken up his quarters with a newly-married couple who had received him with every mark of consideration. But when, after a week's stay in their house the guest began to make himself more and more at home the couple deliberated on the best means of getting rid of the hanger-on and in-ruder without offending him.

I tell you what, said the husband, to-morrow at dinner I will grumble about the soup, saying it is over-salted; you will then flare up, and when the dispute is at its height we will appeal to the decision of our relative. If he takes your part I will turn him out of doors, and if he sides with me you will do the same.

The plan was acted upon, and in the midst of the quarrel the husband and wife called upon their guest to declare which of them was in the right. But the latter coolly replied:

You see, my dears, during the couple of months I intend staying with you I have made up my mind not to interfere in your domestic broils.

Convincing

Oh, papa! Algernon has asked me to marry him.

The nerry pup! What has he ever done to deserve you?

Well, Algernon is a writer of some note.

Is that so? Can you convince me of that?

Certainly, here is the note.

Not Musical

An active but rather illiterate member of a certain club was informed at the last committee meeting that the members had decided to give him an honorarium for his assistance.

Thank you, gentlemen, for your kindness, said he, but it's of no use to me. I really couldn't play it!

But He Did

Maudie, asked her dearest friend, did Bob kiss you last night?

The very idea! Why do you ask such a question?

Oh, happened to hear him say he liked your cheek.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds, those that find lodgement in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

"A Water Clock"

The Brahmin's clocks divide the day into sixty hours of twenty-four minutes each, called ghurees. Occasionally a twenty-four-minute sand-glass is used, but more commonly a copper bowl with a very small hole in the bottom of it, this bowl being placed on the surface of the water and gradually filled. If the hole in the bottom is correctly sized, the bowl sinks in twenty-four minutes; this regulates the duration of the ghuree. An attendant thereupon empties the basin and strikes the hour of the night on a gong.

The young lover of old Egypt was in despair.

And to think, he wailed, that I should lose everything I had trying to corner the fig market. Now I do not know when we can be married. Why I haven't even a house.

The beautiful daughter of the Nile smiled reassuringly.

Cheer up, my dear, she whispered, you can build the house yourself.

But where's the material?

In our date garden. You know, each of your love letters was written on a brick; I have saved them all. Now get your overalls and go to work.

Dr. Washington in a recent address in Chicago said:

The world is over full of preachers and when an aspirant for the pulpit comes to me, I am inclined to tell him about the old uncle working in the cotton field who said:

"De cotton am so grassy, de work am so hard and de sun am so hot ah feel sure that this darky am called to preach!"

The riding master of a crack cavalry regiment has a very sarcastic way of dressing down his recruits when putting them through their facings. One horse in the riding school had played cup-and-ball with his would-be rider, and deposited him on the mat for the twentieth time.

The instructor waited for the poor fellow to regain his feet and said: That's a very good horse, and excellently trained, but surely you don't expect him to catch you every time you come down.

Eczema Cured Three Years Ago

Best City Doctors Failed, But Cure Was Effected by Use of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. A. T. Smith.

You apply Dr. Chase's Ointment for eczema and feel the benefit as if by magic. It may take some days to get the sores cleaned out and the healing process fully established, but from day to day you can see the old trouble gradually disappearing and know that you are getting rid of it.

Mrs. A. T. Smith, 1 Mt. Charles St., Montreal, Que., writes:—"I had eczema on my leg for four years, and tried many remedies and doctors in Montreal and Boston, without any benefit. I used three boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was cured completely. This was three years ago. Since then I used Dr. Chase's Ointment for irritations and eruptions of the skin, and easily got rid of them with two or three applications. Dr. Chase's Ointment is a wonderful preparation."

AROUND THE TOWN

A number of Didsbury people spent a profitable time attending the Holiness conventions held in Wetaskiwin and Camrose respectively during the week. These gatherings are entirely inter-denominational and least eight distinct denominations were represented at the above meetings. The executive of this organization has mapped out a full programme of tent meetings to be held at various points of the province through the coming summer.

The death of Gus. Gilchrist took place on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 28th, at his home in Didsbury. The funeral was held on Friday and was very largely attended. Gus will be greatly missed in the community as he was extremely well known by the travelling public through his services as driver and guide throughout the district, especially in the earlier days of his residence here. He was a cheery, good natured man and his presence amongst us will be missed.
